Howdy faithful praying partners

I am ever so grateful to all who pray for me. I am forever reminded that this work is God's work and unless He works through me my efforts are useless. God is working on moulding me to be more useful.

Language study

I have just 3 more lessons to go! I have learned a tremendous amount but am aware of how much further I have to go. Thanks for praying. My head will enjoy the break from formal studies.

Youth Group

This has been going really strong. A number of the older students and workers have shown an interest in having a responsibility. Please pray for Cheryl and Ben as they assume the leadership and delegate responsibilities. The culture here is very different to back home when it comes to prior planning. People's plans just tend to change and no one blinks an eye. "Oh well, so that person couldn't turn up to do whatever it was they had said they will do, no problem, get someone else to do it".

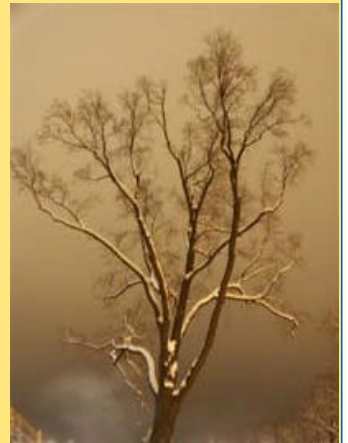

Elections

I'm still staying in the PORA camp at nights. It has been an unreal experience and I have been in a number of interviews, signed lots of auto-graphs, and smiled for stacks of photographs. The decision to hold another election I believe this is a positive step towards fair and democratic elections. The date is Dec 26 and I will be travelling back from Romania that day. Please pray that I have no hassles as a result. Please pray for honesty in this election and that Ukraine will return to a level of normalcy.

Fridge

My fridge (an old second-hand one) has given up on me. I'm going to look at getting it repaired. If it is beyond repair I need to decide whether to get another one now or when I return in May. If I wait, then Kolya will be living in my house with no fridge. If I need to buy one, please pray that I can find a new or second hand one at a good price.

Futsol Tournament

This is on Saturday and I would really appreciate your prayers. We are still finalizing many aspects from the organisational side. Even buying the things I need has proved more difficult than I would have liked. Please pray that there will be no arguments or any misunderstandings that could arise from translation etc. Pray that it is a positive relational day with the members of our town who attend. Please pray that there is no serious injury. We have invited the Mayor to the awards ceremony. I'm not sure as yet if he has accepted the invitation.
