Beautiful Australian Summer Days

After a long journey and not much sleep I arrived in Sydney early Thursday morning. It was a beautiful clear day and we had to bank a few times waiting for our landing. I had beautiful views of the Harbour Bridge, Opera House, SCG etc. Was a great feeling. Brendon and Daniel, two guys from my old Bible Study group picked me up and took me to Krispy Kremes for breakfast (nothing like a healthy breakfast!).

Its funny how many things look just so familiar as if I'd only been away for a couple of weeks and nothing has changed. Yet my life has changed so much in the past year, everything seems a little too surreal.

So far I have been mainly catching up with friends (and a little sleep). It was really good to be back at West Pennant Hills Community Church (West Penno) on Sunday and share briefly in the morning and evening services about my year in Ukraine. I feel like I have so much to catch up on.

This week I head north to Brisbane where I'll be spending time with my brother Tim and family and with the Gollan family also. Tim will be doing a lot of technical support for me, rebuilding my computer and helping me set up presentations for the many places I will be sharing about Ukraine.

News on Dan and Pris. I have very scant details at this stage so will let you know more later. But thank you for your prayers. The baby was delivered on Jan 5th and is a healthy girl named Elizabeth Rose Gollan. Pris however bled really badly and was in intensive care for a couple of days. She is on the mend but please continue to pray for her health.
