January 2005 Monthly Update

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Welcome to 2005! I'm writing this update from London. I saw in the New Year from down town London with a pretty good fireworks display. Was fun to walk round Trafalgar Square, past Big Ben, through Leicester Square and Piccadilly Circus etc. I bought Fish and Chips for dinner.

Then yesterday I went to Regent Street, feels like I've been playing virtual Monopoly. I also enjoyed strolling through Hyde Park and looking through the Victorian Albert and Science Museums. Tomorrow is a Bank Holiday (public holiday) and my cousin Danella and her husband Rick want to take me to Hatfield, where my Gran lived as a girl.

Leaving Ukraine was a surreal experience. I'm just looking at it as a temporary leaving but I was given quite a farewell that made me realise how much I really love the town and young people, many of whom have become really good friends. Please pray for them.

Thanks for your prayers through December The Futsol tournament was a great step in contacting lots of young people in the town and also getting experience in how to organise things in a new country. We now know how to do a lot of things the easier way next time round.

Church and youth group have been growing steadily not just in numbers but in commitment to each other and to Christian growth. Thanks for praying and please continue to pray that real living relationships with Jesus will be the trademark of our church. Christmas was a really lovely relaxing time in Romania.

Dan and Pris

Pris is due to have her baby on January 5th. Last I heard, everything is on track but when they deliver she will need a lot of blood. Please pray for skill for the doctors.

Travel

I have 23 hours of travel ahead and arrive in Sydney about 6am on Thursday morning. I'll be travelling to Old and then to NZ and will be back in Sydney in March. I'd love to catch up with as many people as possible so if I'm coming your way please contact me and I'll try to catch up with you.

2005

2005 lies ahead. What do you expect God to do this year? Already we have seen His power. In what for so many thousands is a terrible tragedy, we are reminded that our lives hang by a thread. What we do with the lives God gives we will one day give an account for.

Only one life

Will soon be past

Only what's done for Christ

Will last

I challenge myself with these words. I'm looking forward to 2005. Thanks for praying last year, please continue to pray for decisions that need to be made. But especially pray that I will live a life of integrity and love. This is my desire for 2005.
